Seeks Release by Habeas Corpus

Institution for Defective Delinquents at Napanoch Claims Good Behavior at Another Prison Would Have Warranted Release.

A hearing on a return of a writ of habeas corpus was held before County Judge Joseph M. Fowler Thursday morning, by which means Daniel Waller, an inmate of the institution for defective delinquents at Napanoch sought to secure his release from the institution.

Waller, who was represented by Samuel Feldman, was sentenced to a term in Sing Sing prison after entering a plea of guilty to an indictment for attempted burglary in New York city. His sentence on July 27, 1923, was for a term of one year and three months. His contention was that he would now be eligible to freedom and he remained at Sing Sing prison. A short time ago, however, he was sent to the Napanoch institution for defective delinquents.

John C. Smith, deputy attorney general, and District Attorney Frederick G. Traver appeared for the people.

Waller contended that had he remained at Sing Sing until June 10, 1924, his good behavior in that institution would have warranted his release from the prison by the parole board. He contended that there is no authority to hold him at Napanoch.

After directing that memoranda be filed with the court by July 24, Judge Fowler reserved decision and Waller was remanded to the institution at Napanoch pending decision in the case.

Hold Woman For Deportation

Miss Athena Staikon, Who Has Brothers at Saugerties, Failed to Bring Proofs From Turkey and Is Held at Ellis Island.

Exiled from Turkey, although she had been a teacher in the University at Zappion, Miss Athena Staikon, a pretty young woman of Greek parentage, had little chance of providing herself with documentary proof that she is exempt from the American quota laws. She is held for deportation on Ellis Island.

The distressing circumstances of her leaving Kios, the Turkish town where she was born; the destruction of her home; the death of her parents; the hurried orders banishing her to Greece even while she was teaching free of charge in the public schools, though matters of affirmative proof, have had little to do with the masters of the immigration service who yesterday dismissed the talented girl's appeal and reaffirmed the order of deportation against her.

She came here on the steamship King Alexander more than a month ago in the hope of joining her two prosperous brothers in Saugerties, N. Y. One of them has offered to pay a bond for Miss Staikon in any reasonable sum so that she might be saved from deportation under the old quotas and given reinstatement under the new quotas.—New York American.

The missing children are Alva and Clinton Nordquist, 13 and 12, Ethel and Walter Bertquist, 14 and 12; Alva Anderson 14, and Florence Benson, 15, of Bridgeport, and Ernest Peterson, 8, guest at the home of the Nordquists.

Frazier Joins Wheeler in Bolt

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, July 18.—Senator Lynn J. Frazier, triple Republican governor of North Dakota, today announced to International News Service that he will "actively support" the candidacy of Senator Robert M. La Follette in the coming presidential campaign.

Frazier declared he would bolt President Coolidge because the latter "did not represent his brand of Republicanism."

Frazier revealed that he plans a speaking tour in La Follette's behalf along with Senator Burton K. Wheeler, former famous Daugherty prosecutor, who recently bolted the Democratic ticket. The first meeting to be addressed jointly by the two senators will be held tomorrow night at Idlewood, Va. They plan a campaign through western states.

"I will support Senator La Follette in the same manner pledged by Senator Wheeler," Frazier said. "We will probably make a number of speeches together in behalf of La Follette. His brand of Republicanism is more in keeping with my interpretation of what should be the party's policy than that of Mr. Coolidge. Senator La Follette has a truer conception of the country's needs, particularly in the west, than President Coolidge. This, too, has influenced me in giving him my support."

Prudential Men's Annual Outing

Held at Golden Rule Inn Was a Delightful Affair—Winners of Games and Prizes Awarded.

The annual outing of the Boosters' Club of the local Prudential Insurance Co. office was held at Golden Rule Inn, Ulster Park, on Thursday, July 17. There were twenty-two automobiles which were decorated with American flags and Prudential signs that conveyed the agents and their families to their destination from their office on John street, leaving at 10:30 and after going through the various streets left for a gala day, and arriving at the Inn, the guests enjoyed themselves in numerous ways. There were 103 persons who sat down to enjoy one of the famous duck dinners that the Inn furnishes. The Rev. Lucas Boever, pastor of the First Reformed Church, pronounced the invocation, and after the dinner gave a stirring address on "Patriotism," which was well received. Division Manager William C. Dietz, from the Home Office at Newark, N. J., was also present and made a speech to the guests along the lines of the insurance business. Photographer W. H. Longyear of this city took a group picture of those present at the outing. Each lady present received a pretty souvenir in the form of a red cedar chest and the children were given a jar of candy. The Misses Elizabeth and Katherine Schickel Wilbur furnished music for the occasion. The detached offices of Saugerties, Catskill and Poughkeepsie were also represented with their families. Superintendent J. M. Van Wagenen and wife of Poughkeepsie and Superintendent A. Henderson and wife of Newburgh were guests and enjoyed the festivities. Al King and H. Crashed in Gate Tender's Shanty

Taxicab Passenger Injured Knee When Car Struck Shanty at Saugerties Road Crossing.

Margaret Brenburgh of East Kingston received a rather painful injury to her knee as a result of an accident at the West Shore railroad crossing on the Saugerties road at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Miss Brenburgh, with three other persons, was the occupant of a taxi belonging to Stork Brothers and driven by Harry Hales. When the car approached the crossing the gates were lowered for a passing train. In order to avoid going on the tracks, the driver turned sharply to the left, striking the gate tender's shanty. The taxi was slightly damaged and the shanty moved from its foundation.

Miss Brenburgh was rushed to the Kingston City Hospital in the taxi while at the same time some one sent for the city ambulance. The police department responded to the call but when they arrived they found that the parties had all been brought to this city. Miss Brenburgh was reported to be resting comfortably at the hospital this morning.

British Flyers Found on Island

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Tokio, July 18.—A Stuart MacLaren, British "round the world flyer," was rescued early today by a Japanese destroyer, several of which had been searching for him since his disappearance three days previously.

First reports to the British embassy and Japanese navy department did not state whether the British "round the world" plane had been wrecked in its landing in Yura Bay where the destroyer found the flyers, but officials said they believed both plane and flyers were safe.

Wife Never Lost Confidence.

London, July 18.—A Stuart MacLaren, British "round the world flyer," who had been missing for nearly three days on a flight from Yotorofu Island to Paramushiru in the Kuriles Islands, was found at Iurup Island this morning, according to a dispatch from Tokio.

The flyer and three companions had been missing since Tuesday. They hopped off early that morning on the 450 mile jump and should have arrived at Paramushiru about noon.

The happiest person in England today was Mrs. Stuart MacLaren, the flyer's wife. She had scarcely slept since Tuesday when the first word that the British plane was overdue.

"I know my husband would come through safely," she said. "He is too brave for anything to happen to him. I know he is trying desperately to finish the job he started on."

The messages from Tokio brought no details. It merely stated a passing steamship had sighted the plane. A Japanese destroyer is proceeding to Iurup. While the first dispatches did not mention MacLaren's companions, it was assumed here they too were safe. They are flying Officer W. N. Flenderith, Sergeant Engineer R. H. Andrews and Colonel L. G. Broome.

Klan Opponent Gets Threat

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Philadelphia, July 18.—Thomas J. Culhane, director of the National Vigilance Association, an open opponent of the Ku Klux Klan, turned over to the police today a letter signed "K. K. K.," warning him to remember the "Rev. Van Loon of Berkeley, Michigan," and abandon his office here.

The Rev. Van Loon was branded with the letters "K. K. K." recently, after he had preached against the burning of a cross by alleged Klansmen.

Culhane declared he had received many letters from individuals threatening him, but he believed this to be from the organization headquarters and would apply for permission to carry a gun for self protection.

The letter he received says:

"You have been repeatedly warned to cease your vicious attacks upon the Ku Klux Klan, and as a final warning we request you to abandon headquarters in Pennsylvania or suffer the consequences. Keep in mind Rev. Van Loon of Berkeley, Michigan, and act accordingly."

Police Searching For Accomplice

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Columbia, S. C., July 18.—A police dragnet was thrown out today for Frank Harrill, a cotton mill worker, wanted as an accessory in the murder of Major Samuel H. McLeary, army artillery expert. Harrill was involved in the crime by the confession of Mortimer H. King, mountaineer, held in the Richland county jail here on a first degree murder charge.

Accompanied by a posse of state and federal officers, King located the body of his victim last yesterday in the swampy land near Cheraw, S. C. The elements had reduced the body to a skeleton, but two black holes in the skull plainly showed the murderer had been murdered. A few scraps of clothing clung to the bones, but the officer's army shoes, still intact, made identification possible.

King pointed out to the posse the spot where he and his companion, said by the police to be Harrill, entered McLeary's automobile for a "lift" and demonstrated how they later stopped the car, shot the officer and dragged his body through the undergrowth to a swampy grave.

When the body was recovered, King was brought back here and lodged in jail. An inquest, conducted by the coroner here, resulted in a verdict that Major McLeary was slain by King and other persons unknown to the jury.

Revolution in Brazil Failing

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Buenos Aires, July 18.—The Federal troops at Sao Paulo are landing a final blow at the revolution. Foreign Minister Pacheco declared today. He denied rumors of uprisings in other states, and said that the alarming reports of the over importance of the movement, were false. He emphasized the fact that the uprising was really local and without national importance.

According to the officials the revolution failed because of the great prestige of the Federal government and because it was not sanctioned by the populace.

An unconfirmed report from Montevideo states that Carlos Campos, president of Sao Paulo, was on his way to Rio de Janeiro on board a Brazilian warship.

Oils Machinery Before Vacation

Democratic Candidate Davis Meets Leaders to Discuss Campaign Plans Before Starting for Rest in Maine.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, July 18.—In the hope of adding final touches to the campaign machinery before leaving tonight for a vacation in Maine, John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, on his return to the city from Locust Valley, plunged into another busy day of conferences.

Motoring in from Long Island early with French Strothers, editor of World's Work, the nominee arrived at the home of Frank L. Polk to find Clem Shaver, West Virginian believed slated for the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee, and Tom Taggart, Indiana Democratic leader, waiting for him. The three immediately entered into a two-hour conference and were joined shortly by George E. Brennan, party leader from Illinois.

On leaving the conference Brennan told reporters that he had assured the nominee that Illinois was for him. Taggart spoke in the same vein in behalf of Indiana.

Brennan said that he had recommended to Davis that campaign plans include a stumping tour for Governor Al Smith, as far west as Chicago.

Brennan added that campaign headquarters very likely would be established in New York, with a branch office in Chicago. He is returning to Chicago tomorrow and Taggart also will leave tonight or tomorrow for St. Louis. Shaver expects to go to Washington tonight.

Norman H. Davis and James W. Gerard, formerly ambassador to Germany, were to meet the nominee in conference later at the Murray Hill Hotel headquarters.

Polk said it was very probable that announcement would be made today of the new Democratic chairman and the personnel of the campaign organization.

21 Lives Lost in Atlantic Gales

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, July 18.—Storms raging on the western European coast in the Atlantic North sea, had claimed 21 lives this afternoon. Dispatches from Brussels said 20 fishing boats were missing and 10 persons were known to be drowned, and news came from Amsterdam that 10 were dead there.

There was considerable property damage and all air service has been suspended, the dispatch said.

Heavy damage has been done to seaside resorts. Houses were wrecked and shipping imperilled.

Dispatches from Lisbon report a cyclone off the coast but it did no material damage.

Britain's Proposition.

The French memorandum proposed that in case of Germany being declared in default by the reparations commission, "the interested governments immediately confer to take prompt and effective sanctions insuring an early end of the default and a return to the execution of the Dawes plan." It added the phrase "so as to safeguard both the lenders (under the proposed loan) and of reparation for the damages sustained by the Allies."

Negro Bandits Take Fatal Leap

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, July 18.—Two negro bandits of a gang of four who lured a taxi-cab driver to the roof of a six story building in Harlem's "black belt" and robbed him of $4 at the point of a pistol, fell to their death early today when they tried to escape by jumping across a 20-foot airway. The other two bandits escaped by the stairs.

The dead: Simpkin Goldwire, 220 West 62nd street and Herman Blaw, 26 West 139th street.

They and their companions hailed Dartad Kassaban, chauffeur, and asked him to drive them to 41 West 136th street. Arriving there, one of the bandits feigned drunkenness and Kassaban was asked to assist in getting him up stairs. When they got to the top the robbers pointed revolvers at the chauffeur, ordered him on the roof, robbed him and ordered him to keep quiet as they started down stairs. Kassaban, however, shouted for help. Two negroes ran back to the roof and fell to their death when they attempted to jump to the next roof.

American Plan Meets With Favor

With England and France Unable to Agree on Sanctions Under Dawes Plan, American Compromise Meets With Success.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, July 18.—An American again today held the center of the European stage in the role of peace-maker.

Colonel James A. Logan, Jr., unofficial American observer, on the Reparations Commission, has advanced a compromise plan for working out sanctions and their application under the Dawes plan, and it seemed likely both France and England would accept it.

England and France have held widely differing views on the question of sanctions, the former endeavoring first to protect the investors in the proposed $200,000,000 loan to Germany, while France had insisted that the reparations under the Versailles treaty and subsequent pacts should be the first consideration.

Deadlocked Over Sanctions.

The Allied conference again postponed the full session today to give the sub-committees further time to complete their reports. In the most important of these committees, that appointed to work out the question of sanctions, an apparent deadlock had been reached between France and England.

Phillip Snowden, British member, presented a memorandum on sanctions which France would not accept. Piretti Della Rocca presented one for France which England would not accept.

Into this situation Col. Logan tossed his compromise and it was reported to be acceptable to France. Observers say that he has probably insured the success of the conference.

The French Proposal.

The French memorandum proposed that in case of Germany being declared in default by the reparations commission, "the interested governments immediately confer to take prompt and effective sanctions insuring an early end of the default and a return to the execution of the Dawes plan." It added the phrase "so as to safeguard both the lenders (under the proposed loan) and of reparation for the damages sustained by the Allies."

Both Plans Included American.

Both plans provided for the appointment of an American as "agent-general" of reparations and as it has already been proposed that an Englishman be named to the reparations commission to represent the bondholders, the French felt they would be left at the mercy of an "Anglo-American alliance."

Washington, D. C.—Where, would the home remedies go if they went home?

Put this question to the family medicine cabinet but keep the door closed. If the vials were seized by magic to depart for their native lands the household would have to spend years of travel and thousands of dollars for train, steamer, rickshaw, junk, camel and bullock cart fare to gather them once more.

"When a man gets sick he calls on the whole world as well as a doctor to make him healthy, the geography of a typical home medicine cabinet discloses," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters at Washington, D. C.

Nations Relieve Doctor's Distress.
"Willie Jones went on an apple raid and got a stomach ache, a cold in his head from wet feet, a bruise on his shoulder and a cut on his hand when he fell out of an apple tree. Willie's mother made him swallow essence of Asin for his stomach ache, rubbed his shoulder with spirits of Taiwan (Formosa), made him take a pellet composed of a substance from a treasury millions of years old and an acid from the forest timber for his cold, cleaned the cut with liniment of South America and bound up his hand with a product of Georgia, Colorado, Greece and the busy bee.

"In the family medicine cabinet these household remedies bore more familiar names. Ginger, a bulbous root, from India, relieved his stomach. Spirits of the rambler tree from Japan's tropic island took the pain out of his shoulder. Aspirin, an acid acetylsalicylic, for his cold, came partly from coal tar pressed into coal from vegetation during the carboniferous age and partly from ordinary wood vinegar. Willie's mother prevented infection in the cut with iodine, a by-product of Chile's nitrates. She wrapped up his hand with cotton gauze and adhesive tape, the latter containing cotton from Georgia, oxide of lead from Colorado, olive oil from Greece, and wax.

"Contributions from curious sources come to the medicine cabinet. Land animals, fish, flowers, plants, trees, ancient rocks, salts dissolved in superheated waters eons ago, and steaming springs are often represented in the emergency case.

"When a woman faints nations gallantly join hands to bring her to consciousness. To make aromatic spirits of ammonia the chemist buys ammonia from a smelly gas plant, begs oil of lemon from Nice, a playground of Europe, and obtains a bit of delicate oil of lavender from Genoa. He goes to the Banda Islands, an out-of-the-way dot on the map of the Dutch East Indies, for oil of myristine, which is distilled from nutmegs and adds alcohol from a corn field.

"Not only do the Banda Islands supply the essence of nutmeg, but also the essence of history of stirring conquests of world colonies, of wars over splendor of Venice that was Vasco da Gama's voyage and of the Spice Islands' place in world affairs today. Marble palaces on Venetian canals were built with cargoes of nutmegs. But Shakespeare's Antonio and his fellow merchants never knew from whence they came. Venetian traders got them from the Arabs, the Arabs from India, beyond that they knew not Anti-Macassar's Origin.

"The Portuguese trailed the mysterious nutmeg to the nearly submerged volcanic cone, Banda. Here they built a fort. The Dutch fought the Portuguese for the nutmeg island and are still there. Refrigerators, which outlawed tainted food, made it unnecessary to drown viands with spice, so business in the Spice Islands slumped. They now turn to medicines, quinine, myristine, camphor and ginger. But deserted fine Dutch mansions in Banda are monuments to another medicine, hair tonic.

"Our grandfathers, with a fellow fear of baldness, put mace oil on their hair. This oil, which made the anti-macassar an essential on the backs of nineteenth century easy chairs, was made from a seed of an Indian tree, which, like the nutmeg tree, grew readily in Banda. Dutch 'myneheers' became opulent by selling macassar oil until it went out of fashion, taking with it Banda's prosperity.

"Epsom salts, which takes its name from health springs at Epsom, England, near the famous Derby downs, and milk of magnesia are made chiefly from magnesite mined on the island of Euboea, off the east coast of Greece. In the Italian Piedmont and near Madras, India, Euboea had health springs also and they were visited by the Greeks.

"Boric acid, an eye wash, or as borax, a washing fluid, not only comes from Death valley, but also and chiefly from the bowels of the earth. Tuscany is one of Italy's richest agricultural provinces except for its low coastal plain, the Maremma, a fever-scoured spot, which contains steaming springs. Boric acid was found in lagoons made by these springs. Finally engineers decided to put artificial walls around the spring and let the water flow from tank to tank. Evaporation brings boric acid crystals automatically, and these are skinned off, dried and sent into commerce."

Boy Scout Camp Near Gardiner

Committee Selects Bevel on Wallkill River, Near Gardiner as Campsite for Under County "Seconant" Outfit.

After several weeks of constant search for what seemed to be the ideal place, the Boy Scout committee located and obtained an exceptionally fine summer camp site for Under County "Seconant" outfit.

Bevel Island is located in the Wallkill river and is within two miles of Gardiner, N. Y. The island as a campsite will have the full approval of all Scouts and their families because of its multi-qualifications. It is strategically located; has plenty of shade and flat ground for tents, instruction, contests, games, etc. Swimming is absolutely safe and there will be as well as boats for use in connection with the various water sports.

While the Scout Executive committee deserves a great deal of credit for their untiring efforts, an abundance of thanks belongs to G. B. Bevel, who owns the island and from whom permission for its use was obtained.

The complete camp equipment this year will be brand new, including tents, cots, bed sacks, etc. There will be a corps of competent instructors in all branches of scouting and nothing is being left undone to provide the Boy Scouts of this county with a camp that will be hard to beat.

A Plea to Men

Please keep your hair
By Edna Wallace Hopper

You men admire luxuriant hair, thick and lustrous, healthy, clean.
And so do we, dear sirs. Then, why will you, through sheer neglect, let your hair disappear.

My hair is finer than 40 years ago.

It grows thicker every year.

I have never known falling hair or dandruff, and never a touch of gray.

Just because I searched the world for the best hair helps men know. And I had them combined in a tonic and cleanser

Mr. Wallace Hopper which I call Hair Youth.

From time to time each better help discovered has been added to it.

I believe the experts I consult know all that is known about hair. I know they will be the most. Certainly no factor ever discovered have brought their hair mine.

Now I offer you, as I offer women, this secret for the hair. It is a concentrated hair tonic. You apply it with an eye dropper to the scalp. There it combats the dandruff and oil and dandruff which so stifle the hair roots. It tones and stimulates the hair thrives just as flowers thrive in a well kept garden.

Now that here I place at your command the best hair help in existence in some fallacious theory, not some ordinary tonic, but the best that science has discovered, so far as I can find.

All druggists and toilet counters supply Hair Youth under guarantee. The first package brings you help you seek, or I will pay the cost. The cost is 50 cents and all with eye dropper. Let me urge you to try it. We women—all of us—love to see your healthy hair. And I have found the secret.

I will send you a bottle to try without cost if you send this coupon to me.

LATEST NEWS OF NEW YORK STATE FARM ORGANIZATIONS

Prepared for This Paper by the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, Ithaca, N. Y.

County Agent and Veterinarian important to T. B. Eradication

A definition of the relationship of the county farm bureau and the county veterinarian to the tuberculosis eradication program of the state was recently set forth by the state department of farms and markets.

The county agent is asked to carry out an educational campaign through publicity, demonstrations and educational meetings and to act as county representative of the accredited herd association. The farm bureau is asked to maintain general headquarters for bovine tuberculosis work and to investigate and make recommendations in regard to applications for tuberculin testing where there is a doubt as to the applicant's maintaining in good faith a herd for dairy breeding purposes.

The county veterinarian is regarded as a local co-operative agency, working with the state department in the application of proper eradication measures.

Seed Growers Will Meet in Ithaca
on Aug 1

A summer meeting of seed growers will be held in Ithaca, N. Y., on Aug. 1, 10 o'clock Standard time, under the auspices of the New York Seed Improvement Co-operative Association, Inc., and the New York State College of Agriculture. The growers will meet in front of Bailey Hall.

The program will be informal in nature, consisting chiefly of field trips to inspect experimental plots of interest to seed growers. Particular attention will be given the potato sample test plots of the department of plant pathology. The visitors will also inspect demonstration plots of the department of vegetable gardening where some 100 varieties will be seen, and the grain breeding plots of the department of plant breeding.

Members of the staffs of these three departments will be present to explain the experiments and discuss problems of seed growing.

Price Situation Slightly Improved

Farm prices the past two months have been on the average steady to strong, while the general price level has declined somewhat, according to the research department of the American Farm Bureau Federation. The discrepancy existing between farm and general prices has been slowly growing less for almost a year, the department states from its studies.

Prices received by farmers have shown a general upward tendency since last December, the number for May being 121 on the 1913 base as compared with 116 in December.

The outstanding market developments of the past few weeks are the rise in grains and eggs and the slump in livestock and wool. Cattle prices have tended unevenly downward since early in April, due to heavy receipts and slow dressed meat markets. Egg prices have risen because of small products, moderate storage stocks and strong demand.

G. L. F. Made Member National Fertilizer Association

The Co-operative Grange League Federation Exchange is the first farmers' co-operative purchasing organization to be admitted to membership in the National Fertilizer association. Announcement of their admission to membership was received recently at the New York office of the exchange. The National Fertilizer association is an organization of over 30 years standing whose membership consists of over 500 active fertilizer manufacturers and representatives of allied industries.

The Co-operative G. L. F. Exchange, which distributes fertilizer to farmers in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, recently took a stand in favor of open formula fertilizers,
a step as revolutionary in the fertilizer industry as was the open form ula in the feed business, also inaugurated by the exchange.

Final Argument Heard on Pittsburgh
Plus

Final hearings in the Pittsburgh
Plus case were held recently before the Federal Trade Commission. This except for the decision ends the federal trade commission phase of the litigation which has been in progress for five years. The Pittsburgh Plus practice has been fought by farm organizations for sometime past as unfair and discriminatory.

Ohio Farmers Study N. Y. Milk Marketing

Representatives of Ohio dairymen have been in New York state for a week or more seeking information about the organization of the dairy farmers in this state. They state that the dairymen of Ohio will probably unite in a state-wide organization for marketing their milk.

Dates for Eastern States' Exposition

The Eastern States' Exposition will be held at Springfield, Mass., Sept.
14 to 20.

Big Cucumber Loss

The cucumber crop of the United States suffers a loss of between $3-000,000 and $5,000,000 annually due to the cucumber beetle. This insect not only injures the plant by feeding, but carries bacterial diseases that are injurious to other plants.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

CHIPPY AND SHARPY

"Let's have a frolic and a game and a race," said Chippy, Chippy the squirrel.

He had been named after his grandfather, Chippy Chippy and there was a famous chipmunk named Chippy Chippy too.

Sharpy, the squirrel, looked at Chippy and said: "All right, Chippy, I'm always ready for some fun."

So Chippy Chippy and Sharpy started to play.

"We'll play tag first," said Chippy Chippy.

"Good," said Sharpy, "you can be 'it'."

"No, you be 'it,'" said Chippy Chippy. And Sharpy agreed, because if neither of them played "it" they couldn't have the game.

Sharpy chased Chippy Chippy from one tree to another. At one time Chippy Chippy jumped a great big jump, but Sharpy was after him.

Then Chippy Chippy jumped another enormous big jump, but Sharpy didn't like that so well.

He jumped though and tagged Chippy Chippy so that Chippy Chippy was "it."

Then Chippy Chippy chased Sharpy and Sharpy ran down the side of a tree and along the lawn and came to another tree.

He got quite far ahead of Chippy Chippy doing this as Chippy Chippy hadn't thought he would run down the tree and along the lawn.

But Chippy Chippy hurried after him when he saw what he was doing. And after a time he caught up with Sharpy and Sharpy once more was "it."

They played this game for some time and then they decided they would play hide-and-seek.

Sharpy had a beautiful hole in one of the trees in which to hide.

And he was anxious that Chippy shouldn't find him for awhile, as in the

There They Sat and Scolded

Tree was a most delicious nut which had been put there some time before and which had been forgotten about.

But Chippy Chippy came just as Sharpy was enjoying the nut.

"Let's not play hide-and-seek any more," said Chippy. "I feel the need of a little nourishment."

"Ah, but it's my nourishment," said Sharpy.

"But I am willing it should be mine," said Chippy Chippy.

"Oh, but I'm not," said Sharpy.

"Put I am," said Chippy.

"That's not fair," said Sharpy.

"Who says it isn't fair?" asked Chippy.

"I do," said Sharpy.

"I don't," said Chippy. "And I'm as good a judge as you are."

"You're not," said Sharpy.

"I am," said Chippy.

"But I say you're not," said Sharpy.

"But I say I am," said Chippy.

And there they sat and scolded each other until the afternoon had almost gone.

And the great joke of it all was that while they were scolding over one nut the other squirrels had been jumping from place to place and had had most astonishing luck in finding good things to eat.

But the quarrelling of Chippy and Sharpy took so much time that they missed all that real feast.

It was nighttime when they had finished arguing, but by that time both of them were too tired to scold any more.

And so they went to bed and to sleep, weary and worn out. And also with very empty little tummies.

The exercise they had made them hungry, but alas, they were too tired to get their food and no one else seemed to feel like handing it to them on a tree tray.

No, the others did not seem to feel like waiting on Chippy Chippy and Sharpy the squirrel but seemed to think it was a great joke that they had wasted their time in an argument over one poor little nut.

What Happened to Goliath

The little daughter of a minister was very much interested in an illustrated Sunday school paper in which David was portrayed in the act of cutting off Goliath's head. Her mother, thinking to instruct her, asked, "What happened after Goliath's head was cut off?"

"I guess," said the little girl, "that all the goodness wanned out."

Wind Was All Wet

Little Vivian had started out for a walk, but when she found it raining she came running back into the house.

"Oh, mamma," she cried, "the wind is all wet."

FAVORITE FRUIT DISHES

Food nicely served and daintily garnished will be much more appetizing than that which is served carelessly.

Next to the palatability of our food we like to have it appeal to the eye.

A luscious basket of fruit garnished with its own foliage when possible, is an ornament to any table.

For those who cannot eat uncooked apples or pears, try this dainty dish to set before them. Stew the fruit in a rich sirup until tender enough to pierce easily, then decorate with quartered almonds, dust with powdered sugar and pour around them the sirup, put into a hot oven to finish cooking. The almonds will be brown and the fruit of delicious flavor. Serve with the sirup and a little whipped cream. If pears are cooked add a little lemon juice to the sirup. When fresh berries are out of season mold a few preserved strawberries in an orange jelly and serve the quivering mounds with whipped cream and a little of the preserves.

Halves of muskmelons filled with ice cream and garnished with small pieces of preserved ginger to simulate seeds is both palatable and pretty. Roasted almonds also may be used in place of the ginger.

Cored apples filled with a mixture of nuts and marmalade, baked and covered with a meringue, is another apple dish de luxe.

Grated apple added to the white of egg and sugar make a most delicious filling for a plain layer cake.

Grated apple added to the white of egg, beaten stiff with powdered sugar, served in sherbet glasses with a thin custard, makes a most dainty dessert.

Stewed pears, cored and centers filled with jelly, served with whipped cream, is another worthy of trial.

Ripe peaches put through a sieve, added to ice cream ready to be frozen, flavored with almond, is delicious.

Halves of ripe peaches filled with nuts and topped with a spoonful of ice cream is a favorite dessert. Half of a peach placed on a round of sponge cake and both laid upon a slice of brick ice cream is another pleasing fruit dessert.

WORLD BEING CONQUERED BY U. S. ARMY FLIERS.

American army fliers who left Santa Monica, Cal., on March 17, are now preparing to hop off from Brough, near Hull, Eng., for the Orkney Islands for their flight across the Atlantic to Iceland, Greenland, and finally the main land of America in the first around-the-world flight. This may show each "hop" of the intrepid fliers, together with the distance flown. The longest single flight was from Attu Island to Paramashiru Island, in the Pacific, 878 miles.

Odd Argentine Vehicle

The currieta, a huge, awkward, two-wheeled cart used in the Argentine to carry hides and wool to market, has broad wheels, sometimes ten feet in diameter. They are often drawn by 18 or 20 horses or oxen, but instead of being hitched two and two these animals are hitched shoulder to shoulder, 19 to 20 abreast, with a heavy leather rope from each animal attached to the axle of the vehicle.—

"Bertha M. Clay," Writer, Was a Man

Who Also Created the Character,
"Nick Carter, the Detective," Died Tuesday in Maine.

There are few book stores in Ulster county which do not carry on their shelves paper covered books—some of them in more pretentious binding—whose author appears as "Bertha M. Clay," and the "Bertha M. Clay" stories have been read for many years. "The Family Story Paper," the "Fireside Companion" and many other weekly publications which had an extremely large circulation in Kingston and throughout the county in their day, generally carried a continued story by "Bertha M. Clay," and readers of adventures fiction looked forward eagerly to a new "Bertha M. Clay" tale.

Probably most of the readers of the "Bertha M. Clay" stories will be surprised to learn that "Bertha M. Clay" was the pen name of John

R. Coryell, the news of whose death on Tuesday, July 15, at Redfield, Maine, was announced in New York city on Thursday. Under that name Mr. Coryell, who was seventy-one years old, wrote for forty years, his output including romantic fiction, travel stories, detective stories and a great variety of other kinds of stories. He died after two days' illness, and only recently had signed a contract to write more stories for the McFadden publication firm in New York.

Of equal or greater interest with the "Bertha M. Clay" stories have been the stories of "Nick Carter, the detective," whose exploits have thrilled millions of lovers of detective fiction. While the late Frederick Van Rensselaer Dey actually wrote most of the Nick Carter stories, it was Mr. Coryell who suggested the character and who wrote the first of those stories. Lunching one day with Mr. Dey and O. G. Smith of the Street & Smith publications, Mr. Coryell outlined what he thought the great fictional detective ought to be, and thus was born a character which made an indelible impression on millions of readers.

Norma Shearer

Beautiful Norma Shearer is another of the many society belles who abandoned a luxurious home to engage in the struggle to gain recognition as a "movie" star. She had won a prize as the most beautiful girl in her home town of Montreal, Canada. She is admired by thousands of patrons of the motion picture theaters.

Have You This Habit?

By Margaret Morison

EVERY MAN'S PRICE

COLONEL SOUTHWORTH and his wife stood looking over the ancient crenella garden wall at the date palms and climbing roses of the adjoining place.

"When does Mr. Sparks take possession?" she asked.

"Today," was the answer. "He's made a palace of it. I wonder what he'll say to his swimming pool when he knows."

Then they turned as Miss Letitia Mason, on whom they were calling, approached. With Miss Letitia her friends did not discuss the northern interloper who, with his workmen and his servants and his "doing over," had come to disturb the peace of her quaint, old Spanish town. Jeremiah Sparks had lavished money on his renovated house and grounds, and the money that he had spent to build a shell-white swimming pool, when the whole ocean lay beyond his sea wall, most of all labeled him for the old settlers. Moreover, his pool, which was built open to the sea, would at low tide gape stark and dry to the sun. Only by cutting across the adjacent peninsula could he possibly keep his pool filled—and the peninsula belonged to Miss Letitia.

The next day Miss Letitia was busy setting out some new violet plants that the Southworths had sent over, when she was interrupted by a heavy voice at her side.

"Miss Mason," said rather than questioned the voice, Miss Letitia rose to her full height, slowly, and, turning to the intruder, replied, "Good-evening, Mr. Sparks."

Jeremiah Sparks was quite used to dealing with opposition. Indeed, his business success was due largely to the mastery with which he could entrap an unwilling customer to lunch and cajole and badger him into speaking terms. Now he fanned himself with his hat and tried to draw Miss Letitia toward some chairs in the distance. But Miss Letitia stood her ground and he perforce came to the object of his errand. He would try bluntness.

"Miss Mason, we are neighbors. My swimming pool—I need that peninsula of yours to open the water to my swimming pool," he floundered, finding Miss Letitia's calm silence more difficult than he should have imagined had he stopped to consider her attitude, which he hadn't. "I will give you a thousand dollars for your land—it's not worth that."

"My land is not for sale," was the answer.

"Fifteen hundred," said Mr. Jeremiah Sparks.

"My land is not for sale, Mr. Sparks."

"Name your own price"—Mr. Sparks was irritated.

"I said—"Miss Letitia's voice was quite level—"the land is not for sale."

"Woman, I've promised my girl that swimming pool!" The suave Mr. Sparks had lost his temper in an unprecedented manner.

"That is a different matter," ended Miss Letitia. "The land is not for sale, but I'll gladly give you right of way across it to bring the water to your pool."

Jeremiah Sparks' lifelong habit of attributing to every man his price was broken for good.

Near East Wants More Money

Letters From National Treasurer Dodge and Admiral Higginson Appeal for Further Funds for Summer Months.

Kingston, N. Y., July 17, 1934.

To the Public:
I would respectfully call the public's attention to the accompanying letter from Cleveland H. Dodge, treasurer, and James H. Barton, chairman of the board of trustees of the Near East Relief, asking for contributions to help them through the summer months, and to prevent them from turning away from their doors 10,000 suffering children.

It is an emergency call from an organization engaged in the salvage of human life, and is, I think, entitled to our serious consideration and sympathetic support.

Saving life is a much better business than destroying it, and it is unthinkable to suppose that Providence has showered upon our nation, while still in its infancy, such abundant bounties of wealth, prosperity, peace and happiness, if it was intended that we should hide these treasures in a napkin. Out of the destruction and slaughter of the World War this nation has already garnered beautiful flowers of charity from the devastated fields of France and Belgium, and the salvage of millions of Russian children is an embalm record for the guidance and emulation of all future generations.

In this good work Kingston and Ulster county have borne their part, so let us not now take our hand from the plough until it is done, and, in answer to this appeal, let each one give according to his means and his sympathies.

In this connection I refer with pride to the part taken in this work by Mrs. Watson L. Freer, who, in a former appeal of this kind, gave the generous sum of $200, and who has now passed on and is enjoying the fruits of her noble generosity. And also, all those generous minded children of Mrs. Ward B. Tongue, who, from a thrift bank which they had carefully and laboriously filled with pennies, gave the sum of $5.

Let us, before it is too late, try to emulate these examples. In answer to this Near East Relief letter an appeal has been made to the churches, so when you go to church next Sunday be prepared to give for this urgent cause.

E. J. H. Clarke, president of the National Ulster County Bank, has kindly consented to act as treasurer of this fund, and contributions can be sent to him, also.

Respectfully yours,
FRANCIS J. HIGGINSON.

The letter from Cleveland H. Dodge, treasurer of the Near East Relief, is to the effect that the Near East Relief needs more money for the summer months; that the prospects for the Thanksgiving, Golden Rule and Christmas offerings are very promising but money is needed for July. The organization has not recovered from the effect of enormous expenditures made necessary by conditions in Smyrna and Anatolia.

Production of Motor Vehicles

Buffalo, N. Y., July 17.—June production of motor vehicles, as reported to the meeting of the directors of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce here today, brought the total for the first six months of this year to 2,002,084 or within 1 1/2 per cent of the number made in the first half of 1923, which was 2,031,093.

The most favorable factor in the automobile world is the steady increase in exports, which reached a new high total in May. Passenger cars exported from U. S. and Canada (plants in which U. S. companies are financially interested) totaled 18-655, compared with 18,122 in April.
The truck figure was 3,800, compared with 2,170 in April. Assembly of American cars in foreign countries reached 12,850.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

WORKERS' "MODEL CITIES."

The first "model city" for workmen was formally opened 50 years ago today on the Shaftesbury Park Estate, near Wandsworth, London S.
W. This was the first attempt to provide ideal cottage homes for laborers, artisans and clerks, and to relieve the congestion prevailing in the crowded tenement districts of the world's metropolis. The Earl of Shaftesbury was largely instrumental in the formation of the Artisans, Laborers and General Dwellings Co., which promoted the enterprise.

It was very successful and other estates were purchased in the vicinity of other British industrial centers.
The problem of congestion, despite the slight relief afforded by such model cities "continues to be acute." Thomas A. Edison once predicted that the problem would be solved by means of his cement "poured houses."

MADAME ROLAND.

Madame Roland, probably the most remarkable woman of the French Revolution was born at Paris in 1758. She married in 1781, and having received an excellent education, assisted her husband in his business affairs, and when secretary of the interior, after the outbreak of the Revolution and before anarchy was let loose was his confidential adviser.
The Rolands were in sympathy with the Revolution, but opposed to the violence and bloodshed which followed in the course of the outbreak.
When the massacre of September 2, 1792 took place, Roland boldly defended them in the National Convention.

After that neither of their lives was safe, and when the faction led by Robespierre, Danton, Marat and other rabid revolutionists was placed in power, Madame Roland was cast into prison, while her husband fled.

After languishing in prison for several months and observing several of her friends sent to the guillotine, she followed them to the scaffold on November 8, 1793. It was she who exclaimed "Oh liberty, how many crimes are committed in thy name."
Her husband, hearing of her death, ended his life.

JUAREZ.

The first among Mexican presidents in patriotism and devotion to his country was Benito Juarez, after whom the Mexican city opposite El Paso was named. Among the self-seeking generals and politicians who have sought to use the Mexican presidency for the satisfaction of their own selfish ends, Juarez stands out as a man who was, if not the Washington, at least the Lincoln of his country. He was of full Indian blood, but obtained a good education and became a lawyer. While governor of his native state of Oaxaca he made a reputation for honesty and ability which caused his banishment by the infamous Santa Anna. He returned to Mexico in 1855 and became chief justice. When Comonfort was overthrown by the church and military party, Juarez became legal president, and after a war of several years, he defeated the unconstitution-alists and was elected president by congress. The intervention of Napoleon the Third, who put Maximilian on the throne, brought on another war, but Juarez triumphed in 1867,
and was re-elected president in 1871,
holding the office until his death,
which occurred 52 years ago today,
July 18, 1872.

A Ballad on Weeds.

The weeds are growing higher and higher:

When will the weeds be cut?
Our town is one we all admire;
When will the weeds be cut?

It certainly seems an eternal pity,
That every year in this fine city
We have to bawl out this same old ditty—
When will the weeds be cut?

It looks like a hard winter. The shells on the cantaloupes are hard and unresisting.

Nothing has yet been found to counteract the bite of the vacation bug.

1924 ASSOCIATED TOURS GUIDE FOR MOTORISTS

The vacation trip by motor car to country, mountains and seashore, is now such an established practice, that for car owners each year it is only a matter of deciding just where to go and how to get there, throughout all parts of the country. As an aid in helping to settle this question for many motorists, The Automobile Club of America has just published the eleventh edition of its annual road book the 1924 Associated Tours Guide. The main highways shown in the Guide are good hard surfaced roads and lead the motor vaca-tionist through country of scenic charm and interest.

The Guide covers by means of road maps and itineraries with mile-ages, all the country East of Chicago from Maine to Florida; also including Eastern Canada. There is also a Transcontinental Tour from coast to coast that serves as a guide to Eastern motorists coming West and Western motorists coming East. The New England numeral road marking system is shown on all maps of that section. There are also given in the Guide's 96 pages, motor maps of the principal cities showing exactly how to enter and leave them; Canadian motor regulations; and a concise table of the motor laws of all states.

For the convenience of car owners
the club has had the Guide distributed through local motor clubs, book stores, news dealers, and druggists; motorists may also obtain it by sending the price to The Automobile Club of America, 247 West 54th street, New York, N. Y.

Volcano in United States

The United States has a live volcano of its own in northern California, called Lassen peak. Its latest important eruption began in 1914, and it has been more or less active ever since. The mountain is nearly two miles high, and there is enough fire inside it to run the machinery of all the factories in this country.

TOLL OF DEATH WIPES OUT FEUD

Latest Killing in Colson-Ball Warfare in Kentucky Nearly Closes Chapter.

Lexington, Ky.—The most efficacious way of stopping the mountain feud apparently is by killing off the fighters. This practically has been accomplished in the noted Colson and Ball factional warfare in Bell county. The Colsons have had the worst of it on the surface.

The latest flare in this long story of feudal troubles came the other night, when George Colson went into the drug store in Middlesboro and found Floyd Ball therein. Four witnesses tell substantially the same story. The two men, both known for their determination, began to quarrel. Then Ball is reported to have told Colson to "get out," that he did not want any trouble.

Witnesses say that then Colson reached for his pistol, but Ball, in the nomenclature of the gun user, "beat him to it," and opened fire. Colson was taken to the local hospital, where he died a few hours later.

Ball made no attempt to escape and was arrested immediately. He claimed self-defense.

Feud Marked by Fairness.

The Colson-Ball trouble is not the average factional warfare in the mountains in that the Colsons and Balls are people of culture and possessed of wealth. It is not the case of assassinations in their fight—it has been generally proved to be the case that the battlers met each other and with guns in hand fought it out, give and take fashion, with luck to the best marksman.

The feud had been quiescent, for a time, until about three years ago, when in a sudden outbreak Ira Ball shot Doyle Colson to death. The enemies changed their bits over that for a little while and then George Colson and Ira Ball met. There was no doubt in the mind of either man that the other meant to kill, so each drew his pistol promptly, but Colson killed Ball. Then the two clans met one summer day in the Bell county courthouse at Pineville.

The trial in which both sides were interested was to be heard, and members of both factions appeared early. Leaders kept the most hot-headed of the gunmen apart, but finally some one made a sharp remark. There was a clash, and in a moment guns seemed to be flashing in every direction.

Riley Ball was slain. Clay Colson, college man and a clean-cut young fellow, was shot, as were Frank Ball and John Hurst of the Ball clan. After a long court trial, during which each side tried to place the blame on the other, Floyd Ball was given a penitentiary sentence for shooting John Hurst in the courthouse battle, but Gov. E. P. Morrow pardoned him.

George Colson was sentenced to the state penitentiary for killing Ira Ball, but his sentence had been reversed and he was awaiting a new trial when he was killed by Floyd Ball.

Colsons' Picturesque Career.

The Colsons have been more picturesque than the Balls. The first of the noted Colsons was Col David Colson, who 25 years ago was one of the state's leading political figures and prominent in official affairs. He was an officer in the Spanish-American war, having resigned his seat in congress at Washington to go to war. While in his post of duty Colonel Colson offended Ethelbert Scott, another young officer, and Scott, while the two were at Anniston, Ala., in camp, shot Colson. The latter refused to ask that Scott be disciplined, and for a time it was thought the ill feeling had blown over. Scott was a nephew of Governor, later Senator, W. O. Bradley.

Then came the political campaign of 1890, when Senator William Goebel was Democratic aspirant for the governorship. One night Colson and Scott met in the basement of a hotel. Scott was shot to death, as were two or three other men.

SONGS OF THE CIVIL AND THE WORLD WAR

Refrains Differed in Character, but Times Change.

Representative Isaac R. Sherwood (Democrat) of Ohio, the oldest member of the house of representatives, and probably the oldest living general of the Civil war, delivered a notable Memorial day address by request before the members just before the house resumed discussion of the agricultural relief bill. It was different from most addresses of the day in that his topic was the songs of the Civil war. General Sherwood, who is eighty-eight years old, stated that the Civil war was almost the only war in history in which the men behind the guns, on both sides of the controversy, wrote the songs. He referred to "John Brown's Body" and said it was written by Col. Fletcher Webster of the Twelfth Massachusetts regiment. Another old favorite was "The Vacant Chair." "The Conquered Banner," he said, written by Father Ryan, chaplain of a Mobile (Ala.) regiment, was the greatest dramatic poem of the South—the requiem of the Confederacy. "Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground," written by Arthur Klittridge of the Second New Hampshire infantry, and "Maryland, My Maryland," the work of James R. Randall, a tutor in a Louisiana college, he praised as excellent poems.

General Sherwood is on firm ground, in the opinion of the Brooklyn Citizen, when he states that these songs revealed the deep thoughts of the participants in the great struggle of 60 years ago. He contrasts them with the songs now in vogue, such as "Yes, We Have No Bananas," "Take Us to the Land of Jazz" and "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." "We are living in a utilitarian age," he says, "and the spirit that actuated that great war appears to have gone." But to be fair, the old veteran should contrast the Civil war songs, not with those of the present moment, but with those of the World war. If we had nothing like "Tenting Tonight" and "The Vacant Chair," we at least had "Pack Up Your Troubles," with its refrain, "Smile, smile, smile," which animated our soldier boys and caused them to march away singing with light hearts; "Keep the Home Fires Burning," which was sung everywhere here and abroad, and "There's a Long, Long Trail," the soldiers' favorite, even though it was written a little while before the war broke out.

But it is deeply regrettable that the seriousness, the high moral tone, which was felt so deeply not only through the Civil war but through the World war, has vanished. There is a spirit of levity apparent, as well as a condition of lawlessness which portends evil for the republic unless it is checked.

Italy Gets Art Treasure

The famous Byzantine cross which has been the subject of a law case in Glasgow, Scotland, has been returned to the church from which it has been missing in Italy.

The cross, which is said to be worth thousands of dollars, has been in the possession of an ice cream salesman for some time, and was a few years ago offered for sale in the window of a shop in Glasgow. The cross having been recognized as the one missing from the parish church at Borgo Collegato, in southern Italy, the church made a claim for its return, and an order was made for the cross to be restored. This was contested, but the ice cream salesman has now lost the appeal, so that the cross will once more adorn the church.

It is a beautiful piece of work, and is said to have been found in the ruins of a castle after the Messina earthquake.

Selects Home Carefully

When a youthful oyster that for an exciting period of two weeks or so has been swimming about looking for a home decides to settle down, the step is a serious one, says Science Service. For when he ties himself down to a rock or similar stationary object, the attachment is for life. This the oyster seems to appreciate. It has been found that before tying up to any definite location, the young mollusca circle carefully around and test every part of the object with their one and only foot. When they find just the place they were looking for, they fasten themselves to it with their foot, which, the need for traveling having ended, serves as an anchor for the rest of their lives.

More Preparedness

Seeing the family doctor passing, Mrs. Flindub called him in and inquired: "Have you some medicine suitable for apoplexy?"

"Why, yes, I think so," answered the doctor.

"Kindly be seated," said the woman.

"But where is the case of apoplexy?"

"It will happen in a minute."

"I don't understand," said the puzzled physician.

"As soon as my husband comes in I am going to ask him for a little extra money."

DIED.

FRIED—In this city Thursday, July 17, 1924, Elizabeth, daughter of James and Elizabeth Donaldson
Fried, in her tenth year.

Funeral private, interment in Montrose cemetery.

He has gone from us, his dear ones
His parents and his wife, who he loved and cared for all his life.

Oh God how mysterious and how strange are thy ways.

To take from us our loved one, in the best of his days.

It is sad that one we cherish, should be taken from our home.

But the joys that do not perish, live in our memory alone.

All the years we spent together, all the happy golden hours.

Shall be cherished in remembrance, fragrant sweets from memory flowers.

Gone but never forgotten.
His heart broken mother and father,
MR. and MRS. CHARLES STANLEY
BROOKS.

And his loving and sorrowing wife,
EMMA RICHARDS SAMPLE
BROOKS.

A precious one from me has gone.
A voice I loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in my heart,
That never can be filled.

God in his wisdom has recalled.
The boon his love has given
And though his body slumbers here,
His soul is safe in Heaven.

His broken hearted wife, MRS. S. G. BROOKS.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 18.—Most of the movements in the stock market today were due to factors which have been operating for higher prices over a long period, with such new developments as seemed to augment the attractiveness of railroad and industrial stocks from the speculative standpoint. In the refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to reduce railroad rates on grain and hay in the west the railroad in that section were assured a more favorable earnings outlook for the present season at least, and this was the influence which sent prices to higher levels in such stocks as St. Paul, Rock Island, Great Northern and Northern Pacific. Low priced rails like Western Maryland, Wheeling and Lake Erie, Texas and Pacific, etc., also made further response to merger possibilities.

Stocks of metal and shipping companies were two of the most active and buoyant groups today.

The best records in the metals group were made by U. S. Smelting, which at 27½ was up 5¼ points from yesterday's low; American zinc preferred. Federal Smelters preferred and American Smelting and Refining. Copper stocks enjoyed a fair rally under the leadership of Cerro de Pasco, Anaconda, Kennecott and Inspiration.

Reactions were more plentiful than rallies in the principal financial markets today, some of the more vigorous speculative markets evidently being halted by profit taking in various forms. Wheat and corn reacted two or three cents a bushel from the high levels of yesterday and cotton was down 50 points at the opening of the market, though a continuation of heavy buying resulted in a partial recovery. The foreign exchange market was featureless in the absence of any definite indication of the trend of developments at the London conference and the small number of bills on the market.

Industrial stocks which usually are looked to for leadership in the general movements of prices were again conspicuously inactive today, and their place was taken first by the rails, then by the specialities, with a return to the rails in the late trading. Heavy demand for New York Central drove that stock to another high price for the year, and Illinois Central, concerning which there have been recent rumors of dividend increases, advanced to a new high above 110. Western Maryland second preferred gained about 3 points from yesterday's low and made a new high at 21½.

The bond market was featured by the strength and activity of the low priced or semi-speculative railroad issues, in which it is believed that investment buying is floating. Bonds of the better class have been growing so scarce of late that private and institutional investors are studying the speculative list with a view to finding good issues which have been strengthened by the recent financial improvement of the issuing concerns.

Chicago Bandits Kill Policeman.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, July 18.—Patrolman Frank McGlynn, of the Chicago police force was shot through the heart and killed here today in a gun battle with four bandits who held up and robbed a messenger for the Stearns Lime and Stone Company of a $600 payroll. McGlynn, a guard for the payroll, was shot down when he attempted to place the four men under arrest. The slayers ran from the building and fled in an automobile.

Hits Syracuse

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Syracuse, N. Y., July 18.—Seventeen-cent gas, the lowest price since the rate-slashing war of last summer, hit Syracuse today.

Small dealers who make the sale of gasoline a minor part of their business and who use it as a trade magnet to their accessory stores and tire shops, are expected to drop to 16 cents before the week end.

A new low price of 18 cents also hit the trust dealers here today.
With four leading oil companies headed by the Standard Oil Company a tank price of 16 cents and two other big concerns ready to follow suit, the 18-cent figure is scheduled to prevail throughout the city before nightfall.

"Folie a deux" for Slayers' Defense

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, July 18.—"Folie a deux," is the latest legal wrinkle which defense counsel are said to be considering as a basis for the insanity plea on which Nathan Leopold and Dickie Loeb may be kept from the gallows for slaying little Robert Franks.

Gathering together the intricate maze of scientific conclusions which the corps of alienists have reached after long and involved examinations of the two young millionaires' sons who killed for a thrill, these highly technical deductions, the defense believes, focus toward a theory that the kidnapping and killing could never have been conceived or accomplished by one of the boys acting alone. It took the two working together with an affinity of their alleged abnormal or subnormal minds to do it.

Thus "folie a deux," or the folles
of two, as a basis of defense, if used in the Leopold-Loeb trial, may come to be as famous as the numerous Dementia Americana in the Shaw case.

Attorney Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel, admitted today that reports from the alienists "tended to support such a theory."
Both defendants, it was announced today, must appear in court Monday before Judge Caverly when Darrow makes his final motion for appointment of a sanity commission. The motion will be bitterly fought by the state's attorney since granting it would automatically eliminate trial for the crime, unless the boys were declared sane.

Life in Everglades

The Indian name of Everglades in Florida means "Grassy Water." There are miles upon miles of flat, grassy land covered with water, usually very shallow and filled with grasses. Now and then there is a "cut" or "slough" (a creek). Now and then also there is a big swamp filled with trees.

Sometimes one will find a lake all edged with sawgrass. There are little dry spots called "islands" or "bunnocks" with trees on them. The water is usually clear, but for the most part has a limey, slippery taste.

There isn't much game in the glades proper, but on the higher land in the vicinity of the glades there are deer, turkey, panther, little black bear, raccoon, fox, squirrel, etc., especially in those places that are farthest from civilization, says Hapsburg Liebe in Adventure Magazine.

Famous Patrons of Art

The Medici was a distinguished Florentine family, which rose to supreme power in the Fifteenth century, and became famous as the restorers of literature and the fine arts throughout Italy. Its most illustrious members were Cosimo de Medici, nicknamed Il Vecchio (The Ancient) and Peter Patrie, and Lorenzo, his grandson, nicknamed The Magnificent, and The Father of Letters. This latter ruled Florence from 1469 to 1492, and proved himself a most munificent patron of art and literature. The family of the Medici became extinct on the death of its last male representative, Gian Gastone, seventh grand duke of Tuscany, in 1737.—Kansas City Star.

Cured The Pup

"E's a nice pup, isn't it?" said Jim,
the village idiot, gazing proudly at his pet terrier. "I haven't had 'im long. I seed Farmer Giles one day takin' 'im
to 'tpond, and I says to 'im, I says,
'What be ye goin' to do with that pup,
Farmer Giles?' 'I'm goin' to drown
'im,' 'e says, sorrowful like; 'e's always chewin' the paint off the legs o'
'tsofa'."

"Oh! don't drown 'im, mister," I says, 'give 'im to me. I'll cure 'im!'
And I did cure 'im, too; I did that. I sawed 'tlegs off 'tsofa'!"—London Answers.

Monsters of the Deep

Swarming in tropical waters, are rays (or sea-bats) up to two tons or more in weight, sharks, some of them over 30 feet in length, and sawfish weighing up to two and three-quarter tons and over 30 feet in length, living evidence that the fish life of the Mesozoic period still exists in the ocean.

POULTRYRAISING CHICKS FOR BEST EGG PRODUCERS

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Arrangements must be made to raise chicks to replenish the poultry flocks.
Pullets are the most profitable part of the laying flock, and a well-balanced laying flock should consist of at least half pullets; which allows careful culling of the hens during the summer and fall before the pullets are matured, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

Baby chicks need especially careful attention in breeding and feeding during the first weeks of their lives, which should be followed by careful and regular attention throughout their growing period. Early hatched chicks are by far the most profitable whether grown to maturity for laying or sold as poultry flesh.

The brooder house and stove heater which are used for caring for the chicks during the first few weeks of their lives, must be in working order before the chicks arrive. The most common style of brooding is the use of a stove brooder in a colony house, keeping from 350 to 500 chicks in a flock in each house, and placing the houses about 150 feet apart on a good grass range. A house 10x14 feet makes a suitable colony house which can be easily moved if built on runners. Chicks brooded in the winter will do better in a larger house, about 10x20, partitioned so that one side is used for a brooder stove and the other for a cool exercising room. Wire netting should be placed in the corners of the brooder house to prevent the chicks huddling and crowding in the corners.

Chicks should not be fed for the first 36 to 48 hours, after which they should be supplied regularly four or five times daily with easily digested feed which contains little waste material. They should be fed sparingly until about the fifth day; then they can be put on full ration. An excellent feed can be made of infertile eggs taken from the incubator, boiled for 15 minutes, chopped and mixed with dry mash of equal parts of cracker meal, bran and cornmeal, using a sufficient amount of the grain to make a dry, crumbly mixture. Middlings can be used in place of the cracker meal. Dry rolled oats are excellent for chicks and can be used as one feed, the other two or three feeds being the commercial chick grains.

At two weeks of age the chicks can be given a dry mash, in a hopper, consisting of 4 parts by weight of rolled oats, 2 parts bran, 2 parts cornmeal, 1 part high-grade meat scrap, 1 part middlings and ½ part dried buttermilk.
Commercial chick feed should be fed three times daily in addition to the dry mash.

Milk is an excellent feed for chicks and should be provided either as a liquid or in the dry form to secure best growth. If liquid milk is available the dried milk can be omitted.
When the chicks are one month old they should be fed a coarser or intermediate chick grain, and at about two months of age the scratch feed can be changed to equal parts of wheat and cracked corn. This should be fed two or three times a day.

Concrete Floors Avert Dampness in Quarters
Many farmers who in former years lost money in poultry raising are now making it a success, all because they are learning that clean, dry quarters for poultry keep the flocks healthy and result in larger egg production and better birds for the market.

A chicken coop with a floor that is likely to become muddy in wet weather and to become a source of dust in dry weather is not conducive to healthy poultry.

Concrete floors are now being laid in chicken coops in increasing numbers. The farmer has found that these floors save his flock in many ways by prevention of mud and dust and by checking the rat menace. Concrete floors prevent rats burrowing under the coops if the floors are surrounded by a low concrete wall about 18 inches high. And if rats do enter the coops through the doors there is no chance for them to burrow into the ground to build nests. Exclusion of rats means a great saving of eggs and young chicks.

A good, practical hen house floor is one two inches thick, made of a "rich" concrete mixture, in which three parts of sand are used to one part of portland cement. This floor should be well smoothed over with a trowel.

Before laying a concrete floor a satisfactory base should be made to give adequate provision for drainage. An eight-inch fill of coarse crushed rock or cinders makes a good base for a concrete hen house floor.

Cleanliness Important

Nowhere is cleanliness more important than in the rearing of little chicks. Their lungs and entire organisms may be stunted and permanently weakened by compelling them to sleep in filthy quarters, breathing impure air night after night. Clean out the brooders and coops often, every day if possible, and give them a good sunning and airing. Nothing is more health-giving and inexpensive than pure air, for chicks as well as old fowls.

And That Fact Explains Reason for Kingston Motorists Traveling Over Ulster County Roads Which Also Attract Strangers.

Automobile traffic through Kingston has been unusually heavy during the past week. All the roads leading into the city from both the north and south have been frequented a great deal in the past few days, while the Rhinecliff and Kingston ferry has also been kept very busy carrying tourists coming from, and bound for the east. The ferry has been carrying a capacity load in both directions on almost every trip and at times has found it necessary to leave cars behind to wait for the next trip.

The traffic seems to be about equally divided in both directions, but it has been noticeable that local automobilists are not frequenting far-away highways nearly as much as in former years. The reason assigned for his fact is that local people much prefer the scenery
along the roads in Ulster county to the congested main highways elsewhere.

Children Receive Much Benefit From Out-of-Doors Games

The bureau of education, through its newly developed division of physical education and school hygiene, covers the whole wide field embraced under these headings, and not a small portion of its energies are devoted to the most important task of helping to develop and encourage the ways and means of outdoor recreation. A half century since there was little need for such work, as the schoolground was of ample dimensions and the spirit of play needed no stimulus or direction. The playground, however, through a nearsighted policy of economy, was in danger of being lost and the natural inclination of children to play has been waning. The playground had to be rescued and restored and the child encouraged and taught how to play, not only for the bodily benefits to be derived from out-of-doors exercise, but for the mental and moral qualities which are developed and strengthened by games.

Information and Advice. It is as a source of information and advice that the bureau reaches its largest clientele, and information and advice are forthcoming as to the size of school playgrounds, their preparation, laying out and equipment. For its publications on the organization and management of athletics and other games there has been a large demand from all over the country and from abroad. It has lent its aid in the revival of folk dances, which had their origin in the out-of-doors life of our ancestors and are as suitable to the playground as to the gymnasium, and these have found a place especially in the vacation schools maintained on playgrounds by so many of our city departments of education.

The bureau is in close co-operation with other agencies which aim to conserve space for play and to encourage the use of the out-of-doors, such as the National Physical Education association, the Playground and Recreation Association of America, the American Child Health association, the Amateur Athletic federation, the Association of Summer Camps, etc. It is in co-operation with the state departments of education and has been influential in bringing together the directors of physical education in these states for conferences in which the development of the sports of the playground has been one of the most important subjects for discussion.

Municipal Playgrounds. In a study of progress in equipment and methods in school and municipal playgrounds recently made by the bureau it was learned that about 75 per cent of cities now have municipal playgrounds and nearly as many are providing playgrounds for all new school buildings. In many cases these grounds are inadequate but in a few instances they afford a space of as much as 900 square feet per child. One state sets a good example by supplying an average of twelve acres of ground for all its schools while in another the motto is "No elementary school with less than five acres and no high school with less than ten."

We are bringing back our vanishing playgrounds and the spirit of healthful play is again assuming its rightful place in the realm of education.

It has been said that the battles of a nation are lost or won on its school grounds, but health and endurance are of as much value for purposes of peace as for war, and the bureau places first on the educational program, not only in theory but in practice, the unfolding of the bodily possibilities along with good mental and moral traits. All the qualities needed for their full development a contact with nature and normal association with human nature in the great out-of-doors.

Chop Suey
Chow Mein Delight
Hon Yun Bue (Almond Cakes)
Tea

AS the popularity of this fascinating Chinese game is spreading like wild fire, and we are all eager to learn to "pung" and to "chow," many people are wondering how they can serve foods befitting the occasion. When we think of Chinese Food, we naturally first think of Chop Suey or Chow Mein (the meaning of Chow Mein is fried noodles). It is interesting to know that Chop Suey originated in America, is purely an American product, and until quite recently was unknown in China.

It is essential that tea be served, either Formosa or Orange Pekoe. As a dessert serve sweetmeats such as preserved ginger, cherries, plums and cumquats (commonly known as Chinese oranges.) Almond Cakes are also very popular.

SPAGHETTI CHOP SUEY

1 package of spaghetti; cook in boiling salted water. On account of additional cooking of the spaghetti, it is necessary to only parboil the spaghetti for 5 minutes. 2 onions (medium sized), 1½ cups chopped celery, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 tablespoons fat or butter substitute, 2 green peppers, 2 cups tomatoes, ¼ teaspoon pepper and ½ pound round steak (chopped).

Method: Melt fat in frying pan, cook chopped pepper, chopped onion and celery slowly for 10 minutes. Add

CHOW MEIN DELIGHT

1 package egg noodles (wide), cook in boiling salted water until tender which generally takes about 10 minutes. ½ lb. pork, ½ lb. veal, ½ cup boiled ham, 1 cup celery cut in thin strips, 1 cup sliced onions, ¼ lb. mushrooms or a bunch of radishes, 1 hard boiled egg, paprika, 1 to 1½ cups soup stock or canned consommé, 2 tablespoons fat, 1 tablespoon flour.

Method: Cut meat in small pieces; brown in hot fat. Add celery, onion, stock; cook slowly until tender. Add boiled ham and mushrooms. Thicken the gravy with 1 tablespoon flour, season. Place egg noodles in serving dish covered with meat, garnish with hard boiled egg and paprika. Macaroni or spaghetti may be served the same way.

HON YUN BUEN

(Almond Cakes)
2 cups flour, ¾ cup sugar, ¼ cup lard, 3 eggs, ½ teaspoon baking powder, almonds.

Method: Mix the flour, sugar and baking powder, add shortening and mix until thoroughly blended. Then add the slightly beaten eggs. Turn on to a board and shape into small round cakes about an inch and one-half in diameter. In the center of each place an almond. Bake until nicely browned.

SETTLEMENT IN SUIT AGAINST FERRY CO.

The action for $10,000 brought by Eugene Neve against the Poughkeepsie and Highland Ferry Company for injuries received on November 14, 1921, when the automobile in which he was riding backed off the string piece at the dock at Highland, has been settled and notice of the trial has been withdrawn. The amount was not divulged.

There were five other occupants of the car including Mr. and Mrs. O. Scheutrich of Springtown, Ulster county, who lost their lives.

ED ROMMEL PRAISES HURLING OF HARRIS

Has More Stuff Than Any Other Pitcher.

The greatest pitching hand in captivity hangs on the good right arm of "Slim" Harris of the Athletics.

This assertion comes from the lips of no less a hurling wizard than Ed Rommel, teammate of the slim one and himself rated as one of the greatest pitchers dug up in recent years. Rommel managed to cop 27 victories two years ago—leading his league although struggling with a hopeless tail-end club. Which indicates that Edward has something at the end of his sleeve besides a hole.

"There isn't any doubt but what Harris has more 'stuff' than any other man in the game today," said Rommel. "He has a fast ball, a slow ball, a beautiful hook and a knuckle ball that hasn't an equal in the business. That knuckle ball alone can win ball games. Imagine what you'd do, if he served it to you as part of his repertoire—in between a smoke ball and one of his rolling curves.

"I stood behind Harris for half an hour while he warmed up with young Earl Mack catching him recently. "Harris was working on his knuckle ball. Control is essential, of course, and Slim was trying to place it where Mack held his big mitt. It went wild very few times.

"Slim starts it with the free and easy style he uses for both his side arm and overhand shoots. He covers the delivery beautifully. He holds the ball as he would for a curve or speed ball while winding up. It disappears into his gloved hand over his head without any tip-off to the batter of what is coming.

"Then, some time between the peak of his windup and the release, Slim slips his two fingers back until the nails touch a seam of the ball. In this position he lets the ball go. "It travels the entire distance without revolving a full turn. You can read Ben Johnson's signature all the way."

Champion Hoppe to Quit Billiard Game

At the conclusion of his exhibition match on the Pacific Coast with Jake Schaefer, Willie Hoppe, billiard champion of the world, announces his retirement from competition, effective at the end of this year. Hoppe intends to devote all his time to business in New York.

Significant of Hate

In ancient times there was a belief that a man was assured of immortality only as long as his name was known on earth. The building of monuments and the naming of sons for fathers are traced to this superstition by some writers. "May his name perish" was the anathema of an enemy.

Sporting Squibs

Ski has gone back home. He didn't fit into the organization.

Abe Goldstein's record does not show that he has ever been knocked out.

Jay Gould has held the national amateur court tennis championship crown continuously since 1903.

France's first automobile speedway will be opened at Marseilles in July, with a 500-mile free-for-all race.

The record for the greatest distance ever walked in one day—127 miles, 1219 yards—is held by Hawes of England.

Bill Tilden and the national tennis organization are engaged in anything you would care to call a love game.

Joseph L. Atwood of Tilton, N. H., aged sixty, recently ran 100 yards in 18 seconds. To be doubly sure of this record he repeated the stunt.

Arthur Havers, British golf champion, in open play cleared, it is estimated about $3,000 in five special matches during his tour of this country.

Below: ATLEE POMERENE & BURTON WHEELER

U. S. Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, has bolted the Democratic Presidential ticket and will take the stump for Robert M. La Follette, progressive Republican, asserting John W. Davis's connection with J. P. Morgan & Co. makes it impossible to vote for him. Atlee Pomerene, Government counsel in the oil fraud cases, has left Washington for Los Angeles, to expedite the Government's suit to recover the Elk Hill oil reserves. Governor Charles W. Bryan, of Nebraska, Democratic Vice-Presidential nominee, is shown in his overalls, hard at work on his farm. No he isn't. Charles Lantern, baggage master from Omaha, Neb., on train that took Governor Bryan home, is his exact double and is often taken for him. Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former head of the Veterans' Bureau, indicted in Chicago on charges of bribery, is so ill in the East that he may not live to face trial Sept. 15.

Made Sick of Liquor

One of the most original ways of curing the habitual drunkard is that practiced in the "inebriates' homes" of Norway. And, according to report, it is one of the most effectual.

When brought to the "home" the "case" is allowed nothing but wine to drink. Not only this, but all food supplied to inmates is flavored with, or dipped in, wine.

For a day or two there are "no complaints." But gradually the wine and wine-flavored food begin to pall, until presently even the most thorough-going drunkard begins to wonder what virtues the grape can possibly possess. So quickly does the treatment work, indeed, it is claimed even the worst cases can be cured.

Origin of "Sterling"

Of unusual interest is the derivation of the word "sterling" as applied to something that is "genuine, pure, unadulterated, or of excellent quality."

The Esterlings were the north Germans, or the merchants of the Hanseatic League, the original "moneyers" of England. The name of these merchants came to be applied to coin or goods of a fixed, standard value, answering all tests.

In the time of Edward I, we find an English coin issued of the designation of a dinar or denarius, called "sterling," has been applied to the English pound, which before the war was regarded as the best value in the world. —Reheboth Sunday Herald.

To Clean Clock

To clean a clock saturate a piece of absorbent cotton about as large as a hen's egg with kerosene oil and place it in the bottom. Close the door and let the cotton remain for three or four days. Then take it out and swing the pendulum. Unless something is broken the clock will go all right, as the fumes from the oil cleanse the works.

No Change in Suicide Rate

Stationary Rate Attributed to Widespread Prosperity—Most Big Cities Show Decrease—Low in Steel and Coal Producing Centers.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 18.—Returns for eighty American cities for the years 1922 and 1923 show that the suicide rate remains unchanged, or 15.2 per 100,000 population, according to the current issue of "The Spectator" insurance journal appearing today. The rate increased in 34 cities and decreased in 46, tables accompanying the article show. The stationary suicide rate is attributed largely to the widespread prosperity enjoyed by virtually every element of the population.

San Diego, California, leads the list, the rate for that city during 1923 reaching the high figure of 50.5 per 100,000 population, almost unprecedented for communities of considerable size.

Cities of the lake region generally show low rates of suicidal frequency, the five principal cities, Chicago, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit and Milwaukee all having rates below the average.

Louisville had the highest rate in the Mississippi river cities and Cincinnati was second. Both New Orleans and Memphis were below the average.

In the steel and coal producing centers, especially McKeesport, Pittsburgh, Scranton and Pueblo, the rates were decidedly low.

Boston was slightly above the average in the eastern cities. Manhattan and the Bronx showing no change in their rates of 16.4 and 16.3 respectively. Philadelphia's rate was 14.4.

THE COAT OF CRETONNE OR TAPESTRY.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The exploitation of cretonne as a costume fabric is nothing new. It blazed the trail over which other upholstery fabrics followed, tapestry among them. Some Paris couture houses used wool brocades and tapestries last fall, trimming them handsomely with fur, and the idea, while not universally accepted, met with sufficient response to warrant making a talking feature of it.

London, it seems, has sponsored coats of this genre, the model sketched being made for royalty and trimmed with pleated crepe which intensifies the wood-brown tones, which, with orange and blue, are involved in the color scheme of the cretonne. The separate coat, especially when approximately the length shown, is a utilitarian garment which is loudly claimed not only for immediate but for future use.

One sees more and more coats which repeat the material of the gown. Several ultra smart tunic frocks have a straightline coat which just comes to the edge of the tunic, and is lined with the material of which the tunic is made.

It is a trifle early, of course, to ponder deeply on fall fashions, but that skirts are short again is one of the advance notices issued. The suit, which was the dominant note of the spring season and is still important, is a glorified affair of the ensemble or three-piece type, which implies that the coat may be used separately.

There seems to be a feeling for materials of the cashmere and broadcloth types rather than those of the pile family; but, curiously enough, one already hears a good deal concerning the chic of erect pile velvets—one even sees them combined with straw in midsummer millinery. (Copyright, 1924, Fairchild.)

George Farquhar, the Irish dramatist of the close of the seventeenth century and the first decade of the Eighteenth, was only twenty-nine when death overtook him. His last days were spent in dire poverty.

Price of Gambling

Gaming was introduced into England by the Saxons. The winner had the right to hold the loser as slave and to sell him. Gaming houses were regularly licensed in London in 1663 and suppressed in 1653.

Oneonta Here For Two Games

The Colonial-Amsterdam K. of C. game scheduled for Thursday was not played due to a heavy storm.

Today the Schrickmen will enjoy another day of rest Saturday and Sunday at the Fair Grounds, the Oneonta Giants will be the attraction. The Oneonta team has the edge in the series so far this season and the local representatives are out to win both games. The pitching staff of the Colonials is in fine condition and a double win would not be a surprise.

Very Odd

Isn't it funny? A ruse is a blind, a blind is a shade, a shade is a shadow, a shadow is a ghost, a ghost is a shade, a shade is a color, a color is paint and paint is rouge. Therefore, by Euclid, a ruse, a ruse must be a ruse. And curiously enough it is true.—Yale Record.

McNally Says He Tried in Vain

To Pit His Studebakers Against Wilbur's Chevrolet—Brickmaking Burg Manager Is Philanthropic.

Editor, The Freeman:

Ever since the baseball season opened up I have tried in vain to arrange a game with Manager Wilbur's Chevrolet, but have never received any definite answer. All that Manager Wilbur keeps telling me is that he had no home grounds. What I want to know is, if he has no home grounds why did he play Wappingers Falls at the Athletic Field? I am willing to give Manager Wilbur a reasonable sum to play at East Kingston, but I will not give him the amount he is trying to get from me, because his team is not worth it. My team is willing to play the Chevrolet any time or anywhere and turn the proceeds over to charity. If Manager Wilbur is so inclined, Manager Wilbur said that the next move is up to me. All right then, move your Chevrolet down to the Athletic Field some night, and give them a test against a real ball club. Don't try to play Tannersville until you play my Studebaker club.

Hoping Manager Wilbur will accept my offer.

WILLIAM T. McNALLY, Manager Studebaker D. B. Club,
the team with a reputation.

Really Good Tennis Players in Country

William T. Thiden remarked recently that in touring the country last year he was astonished at the number of really good tennis players to be found in localities that had never been mentioned in tennis circles. No one around Boston, New York and Philadelphia, acknowledged tennis centers of the United States, had ever heard of these players.

Professional golfers, traveling from city to city, playing exhibition matches, find excellent golfers in remote parts of the country, men showing genuine talent. Some of the best football players in the land are members of "fresh water" college teams and the stars of baseball, at least a great number of them, come from places that are included only on the enlarged maps.

LUIS ANGEL FIRPO WON FORTUNE EASY

Argentine Boxer Struck at Opportune Time.

No boxer in the history of the ring ever had such a sensational rise to prominence or made so much money in such a short time as did Luis Angel Firpo. It is probable that no boxer ever will find conditions so suitable as Firpo did for his elevation from a $10 fighter to one worth a half million.

Boxers with more ability than Firpo may lack the size and color that the Angel turned into a fortune in one year. Boxers in the future with the same color and money and much more ability may never find the opportunity that Firpo found when he just stumbled into it.

Firpo was the first South American fighter to become famous. Since he became famous he started a vogue for South American fighters, and, in a few years, there will be no novelty in watching or reading about South American fights. It is possible that Brazilian or Argentine fighters may earn a reputation for being cheese fighters and will be given no opportunity in the United States.

Firpo happened to spring up at a time when promoters were looking for another million-and-a-half-dollar gate, like Tex Rickard pulled with the Dempsey-Carpentier fight. It was the thought that the international character of the Dempsey-Carpentier bout was what would have to be provided to get another vast outpouring of the boxing public.

There were no great foreign fighters available until Firpo showed up and Rickard, with more foresight than any other promoter, grabbed him and rushed him along into a great fortune.
